

IWPR Annual Report 2016

Throughout 2016, IWPR continued to support free voices in some of the most challenging environments around the world and to help in the production of vital frontline reporting.

All of our efforts seek to strengthen local voices so they can drive positive change in their societies, regionally and beyond. None of this work would be possible without the engagement and trust of so many courageous local journalists and activists, from whom we draw so much inspiration.
