

Polls Apart

IWPR
English

Local media coverage of the October 2000 parliamentary elections in Belarus was overwhelmingly driven by political and not professional concerns. With the mass media in the country divided into pro- and anti-government camps, the voters were the ultimate losers. Neither side presented members of the public with sufficient objective information for them to make an informed choice.

 Polls Apart - English \(PDF\)

Source URL: <https://iwpr.net/what-we-do/printed-materials/polls-apart>